Artworks Show Students’ Love for their City

Alhambra, CA — The theme of love is on display inside Alhambra’s City Hall this month, and the City Council is inviting the public to come check it out.

As part of the “Love My City” campaign, students were asked to submit artworks showing what they love most about Alhambra.

More than 150 students from 13 schools participated and sent in drawings that illustrated what they cherished about this community.

“I love how Alhambra is such a fun city with countless things to do” wrote one student.

Another adds, “I like that it has many parks with lots of trees and playgrounds where children can play and have fun.”

Another student stated “I drew my neighborhood to show how much I love it. Everyone here is always happy.”

“The drawings are very creative and shows how talented our students are,” said Mayor Ross Maza. “I encourage parents to bring their children to City Hall to see the fantastic work by our students.”

Besides parks, playgrounds, and public safety officials, students said they love the schools, restaurants, food and diversity in Alhambra.

The Love My City campaign is a partnership with the National League of Cities. It aims to spotlight the connection that people feel about the City that they live in, attend school or work at. It encourages civic engagement and to develop a stronger sense of community trust.

The “Love My City” artworks are on display at City Hall through the end of the month.
